WHAT TO EXPECT

In the field of simulation, the close cooperation between business and education is extremely beneficial to both entities. A major goal of this seminar is to facilitate linking business and education and foster cooperation and collaboration. This unique event will be rich in knowledge and inspiring success stories.

The seminar will explain and illustrate the application of simulation (based on FlexSim simulation software URL: <https://www.flexsim.com>) and the business value it offers. Also the seminar will explore means to integrate simulation into the curriculum and engage with industry.

The seminar will be conducted in English and is free of charge.
